

Instructional Leadership Inventory

Working Document

Main Section

(questions followed by space for your answers)

1. Do you teach interdisciplinary curriculum units dealing with health, safety and the environment?

2. How will you utilize/involve community based investigations to achieve student learning?

3. Do you provide opportunities for collaborative learning that include students, teachers, other school personnel, parents and community members?

4. Do you make modifications in teaching to adapt to the unique needs and abilities of various students?

Instructional Leadership Inventory

Working Document

Main Section

(questions followed by space for your answers)

5. Do you have subject appropriate backgrounds to assist with learning about health, safety and the environment?

6. Have you and other staff in your school received training in authentic assessment? How will you know your students have learned?

7. Is the school schedule flexible to allow students and teachers time to conduct in depth investigations?

8. Are procedures in place that make it easy and safe for teachers to take students outdoors or out into the community for investigations?